BITTER ARGUMENTS ARMAND RUM TRIAL

THE DEFENSE IS PARADING SHROUD OF DEAD PRESIDENT

Says Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant U. S. Attorney General—Attacks Made On Major Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner.

Charges that the defense "is parading in the shroud of a dead president," that "perjury as committed by the three defendants" and attacks on Major Roy A. Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, marked the closing arguments in the conspiracy trial of J. E. Russell, suspended federal prohibition director for Ohio; Merle B. Copeland, his chief permit clerk, and Warren Barnett, prominent attorney, all of Columbus, Monday.

That "the defense is parading in the shroud of a dead president" was charged by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general after counsel for the defense referred to Russell and Copeland in their closing arguments as personal appointees of Warren G. Harding.

Mrs. Willebrandt also took exception to a statement by Attorney Luther Day of counsel for Copeland and Russell, that all of the facts in the plot of the Armand Rum and Candy Co., Cleveland, to withdraw whisky from a distillery at Troy had not been told.

"Does Luther Day think for a moment that the government is not conscious that all of the facts have not been disclosed?" Mrs. Willebrandt asked. "But all of the facts necessary to this case have been presented."

Day brought tears to the eyes of the jurors and spectators when he characterized Harry A. Grossberg, Cleveland attorney; Armand A. Cardoso, former head of the Armand Co., and Abe Ungerleider, Cleveland, the government's principal witness as "tellers of untruths" and "unvarnished liars."

Day also attacked the failure of the governments to indict Underleider.

In denying the guilt of the three defendants, former Federal Judge William L. Day, also of counsel for the defense, criticized Commissioner Haynes, who had testified for the government.

"If Russell and Copeland are subject to criticism, then how about Washington?" the attorney shouted. Then proceeding, Mr. Day argued that if the defendants are guilty Major Haynes is equally guilty.

Under cross examination, while testifying for the government the defense drew an admission from Major Haynes that copies of the Armand withdrawals had been sent to his office.

"Why excuse Haynes and indict Russell?" asked former Appellate Judge Walter D. Meals, associate counsel for Barnett, the last of the attorneys to argue today. "I don't suppose either Russell or Haynes knew anything about their offices when they first went in."

Mr. Meals said that the price paid Abe Ungerleider for his testimony "appears in the indictment arranged by his attorney." Speaking of Grossberg, he said, "if he didn't expect leniency from the court, he does from some other official when he gets ready."

Myles E. Evans assistant district attorney in opening for the government claimed that "perjury was committed by the three defendants" when they denied the testimony of Gardos, Grossberg and Ungerleider, whom he referred to as the three confessed conspirators.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Liston of near Ashville, entertained to a dinner Sunday the following: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sampson, Mrs. Katie M. West and daughter, Twila, of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Liston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bolender and son, David, of Circleville and Mrs. Beulah B. Parley of Columbus.

A delightful surprise was given Sunday, June 7, at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Milligan, six miles north of Baltimore, honoring the 72d birthday anniversary of Mr. Milligan. At the noon hour a delicious dinner was served on the lawn. Those participating were Mrs. Charles Sorenson and son, Laman, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McCoy of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Milligan and sons, Charles and Robert, of Sunbury; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cutler and daughter, Geraldine of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackburn and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Milligan of Lancaster; Harold Smelser of Oakland, Mr. Charles Kemp, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Milligan of Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Milligan. The day was one to be remembered by all present. Leaving at a late hour all wished Mr. Milligan many more happy birthday anniversaries.

The Portsmouth Times gave an extended account of two recent social affairs in that city and among other things said:

Mrs. Gilbert S. Monroe and Mrs. Joseph T. Mickelthwait, two popular matrons, were accorded a social triumph as a result of their beautiful reception held Thursday afternoon between two and five o'clock at the Country club. The affair was given in honor of Mrs. Monroe's daughter-in-law Mrs. Harold Monroe, a bride of a few months.

Under the skillful touch of a decorator, the pretty club house, which affords an ideal place for a large affair was never more attractive, the lower floor being banked with baskets and vases of June roses and snapdragons placed here and there making an effective background for the two hundred handsomely gowned ladies who called during the receiving hours.

Mrs. Mickelthwait wore a lovely afternoon gown of blue beaded georgette. Mrs. Monroe was costumed in a gown of orchid georgette attractively beaded while her charming daughter-in-law wore a pretty frock of yellow georgette the three colors blending beautifully. At the entrance the guests were met by Mrs. Charles W. Wendelken and Mrs. Oscar R. Mickelthwait as they passed on they were welcomed by the two gracious hostesses and honor guest. After whiling away a few pleasant moment in the spacious living room the callers were invited into the dining room to partake of a delicious pink and white refreshment course. The table was attractively decorated with roses snapdragons and soft shaded lights. All during the afternoon Henri Schnabl's orchestra played a delightful program of music, which added much to the pleasures of the afternoon.

Mrs. Mickelthwait and Mrs. Monroe presided at an attractive bridge at the Country club on Friday afternoon when they entertained more than eighty guests at cards. This was the second of a series of two beautiful parties given by Mrs. Mickelthwait and Mrs. Monroe and proved to be one of the most charming of the early summer. The large living room was backed with summer flowers and the tables were attractively arranged with black and orange covers and the chairs were painted in orange.

At five o'clock a green and white ice course of exquisite appointments was served at the small tables. The ice cream was frozen in the shape of cream roses, the centers of which were yellow and the leaves green.

The out of town guests included the following: Mrs. Maud Hedges of Ashville, Ohio; Mrs. Sara Lyle, Mrs. Carrie Patton, Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, Mrs. Harp Van Riper, Mrs. Gus Schiear, Miss Flo Bell of Circleville, and Miss Eva Bentley, of Urbana. Miss Bell was one of the prize winners.

No Hypnotic Crimes
Assertions that crimes have been committed by one person at the hypnotic bidding of another must be relegated to the field of pure fiction, according to Doctor Delboeuf, a French physician, who has made a study of the subject of hypnotic influence. Doctor Delboeuf tells of an experiment that seems to be conclusive. He had one man whom he frequently used as a subject, who could readily be persuaded, while in the hypnotic state, that a stick or bottle or any such object was a pistol, and on being commanded would "shoot" any other person with the mock weapon. But when a real revolver, which the subject in his conscious state had always known to be loaded, was placed in his hands, he would not pull the trigger, though he was hypnotized at the time and the weapon was empty. Doctor Delboeuf is of the opinion that naturally moral persons will not perform under the hypnotic state any acts that are inhibited by their conscious moral codes. He believes also, however, that a person of criminal tendencies might commit a crime while hypnotized, since the idea of crime is not repugnant to his conscious mind.

LUCKY STRIKE

IT'S
TOASTED

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

TO the general public, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a 75c tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly one-half of what you pay for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last (fiscal) year it amounted to $309,014,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.93, or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins More Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it generous, to attract attention.

Super-quality

Only by immense volume can we produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture

Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert, describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

COAST GUARD HAS MANY ODD TASKS

Get "Singing Sands" and Find Spot for Bee Culture.

Washington. — Annually the coast guard is writing new and thrilling chapters of marine history by its protection of life at sea and its war on rum runners, but between times it also is attending successfully to a multitude of small duties about which the public hears nothing.

One of the most unusual requests ever received was from the head of a religious cult for specimens of "the purest sands of the sea," wanted to heal bodily and spiritual ills. A station in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras, without passing on the curative qualities, has agreed to supply pure sea sand as requested.

The Department of Agriculture called upon the coast guard to locate a place suitable for bee culture, under prescribed conditions, and free from objectionable vegetation. A propitious spot was found near Indian river inlet, on the Delaware coast.

Samples of marine growths, "singing sands" and other objects used in scientific study have been gathered, upon request, by the coast guard. Many times it has wrestled with the question, "What is the most dangerous part of the coast?" propounded by some curious correspondent.

Messages in bottles washed up on the beaches are coming to be written into the logs of coast-guard stations with progressing frequency. Recently one was picked up in a whisky bottle, the writer of the communication saying that he had been shanghaied aboard a rum craft and was being held against his will on rum row.

Restoring lost children to their parents, protecting wrecked property, fighting forest fires, aiding children to get to school through coastal storm-stricken regions and assisting survey parties, all are among the odd jobs in which the coast guard has had a major role.

Back and Forth

A new kind of truck has been brought out that travels backward as well as it does forward. A seat facing the regular driver's seat is another innovation, for reverse driving.

Superb Horsemanship

Riff horsemen, whose achievements in the war with Spain are frequently referred to in the newspapers, are the most daring riders in the world. When in full gallop they will throw their swords and matchlocks in the air, and catch them by the hilts or stocks without drawing rein.

Not long ago a war correspondent declared that he had seen a Riff rider thread a needle held by another rider while racing full tilt across the sand.

Cossacks are fond of performing similar spectacular feats. One of their favorite tricks at gymkhanas is to snatch a child from its mother's arms throw it into the air, catch it, and return it unharmed to its parents.

Indian riders of the Great Northwest will dismount while their steeds are galloping, pick up an object on the ground, and remount almost in the same instant.

Here Is the Tool That Completes the Fordson Farming Cycle

FOR many years the tractor has performed satisfactorily with plow, harrow, drill and belt-driven tools. But, how to utilize Fordson power in cultivating corn has been a problem. That vacancy in the cycle which would otherwise be complete has now been filled by the Amsco Two-row Cultivator.

With this machine, the Fordson cultivates thoroughly from the first cultivation to the last. This new machine has accomplished remarkable results. It marks the end of monotonous cultivating behind slow plodding teams.

The construction of this machine is simplicity itself. No unnecessary parts. No unnecessary friction. The cultivator is light running and easy to handle.

This is the last word in Standard Fordson Equipment, and every farmer in this community should see it.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. WILMINGTON

Defeated Circleville Sunday Afternoon In a Well Played Game By a Score of 4 To 2.

A good sized crowd saw Wilmington defeat Circleville yesterday at Mason's field by a count of 4 to 2, in a game in which the majority of the breaks went to the visitors. Dewey pitched a nice article of ball and if the fielding had been perfect would have sent the visitors home without a run.

The Wilmington team scored three of their four runs in the third inning after a chance to retire the side had been fizzled, and the final run in the sixth was the result of two fielding miscues.

The story of that unlucky third is a painful one to tell. This is the frame in which the visitors did their only stick work of the game, securing five of their eight safe blows, but for Outfielder Russ Miller misjudging a line hit which got over his head the side would have been retired without a run. The first three men up connected safely, in this inning, filling the sacks with no one down, but the next batter rapped a hard one toward center on which Pettit made a nice catch and with a quick throw doubled the man on second. The next hit was the one on which Russ lost track of the ball and two runs came over and to add to the woe of the local fans the next batter hit a high one, which went safe because all of the three men that started for the ball stopped and let it fall between them.

In the sixth after Davis had hit safely, Lever let a pitched ball get through and Davis went to second from where he scored when Miller missed Dodd's poke to left.

Circleville's first run was a gift from the Wilmington pitcher. Pettit was walked and was forced at second by Allen and then McGrainer was given a walk, placing Allen on second from where he scored when Tommy Thompson delivered a sharp rap between first and second.

In the ninth the locals secured one more and it looked like they might break up the game. Dewey led off with a clean hit and when Wilmington attempted a double play on Rife's grounder to Hironamus the second baseman failed to touch the bag and Rife beat the throw to first, both being safe. Dewey thinking he was out started to walk to third and the Wilmington first baseman thinking the same thing tossed the ball to the pitcher and Dewey had stolen the base in a walk while the ball was in the infield. Pettit then brought the fans to their feet with a line drive to right, but the celebration was premature as the ball was driven directly into the fielder's mitt. Allen then forced Rife at second and McGrainer started another thrill when he connected with one, but his hit was a duplicate of Pettit's, the ball going directly to the right gardner for the final out of the game.

In addition to these two hits, either of which would have gone to the fence if they had been a few feet either way, Os Miller hit a drive at the third baseman that he had to catch because he could not get away from it, and on a number of occasions the Wilmington infield took hard hit ground balls that came right to them.

The fielding features were Pettit's double before mentioned, a nice double by Rife, Allen and Miller, a beautiful catch of a line drive by Davis, and the stop of a hot grounder well up toward first by Botts.

On next Sunday Circleville will play at Wilmington and a large crowd will undoubtedly follow the team.

KEEPING WELL

BEN FRANKLIN ON VEGETARIANISM
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was not only one of the great men of his time, he was one of the great men of all time.

He was a successful business man, a successful publisher, the owner and editor of the most influential newspaper of his times; a leader in the political thought and activities of his generation; one of the men whose vision and statesmanship created the United States out of a handful of quarreling and undeveloped colonies.

He was our first ambassador to France; he organized our post office service. As a scientist, his work in electricity and physics laid the foundation for much of the wonderful electrical development of the present day.

Yet Franklin had as much trouble finding out what he ought to eat as any of the rest of us have. In his autobiography he tells about his conversion from vegetarianism.

He says, "In my first voyage from Boston, being becalmed off Block Island, the sailors set about catching cod. Heretofore, I had held to my resolution of not eating any animal food and I regarded the taking of each individual fish as a kind of unprovoked murder, since none of them had done us any injury which might justify the slaughter. I had formerly been a great lover of fish and when this fresh cod, which the sailors caught, came hot out of the frying pan, it smelt admirably well. I balanced some time between principle and inclination until I observed that when the fish were opened after they were caught, their stomachs were found full of smaller fish. Then I said to myself, 'If you eat one another, I don't see why I shouldn't eat you.' So I dined upon cod very heartily and continued to eat with other people, returning only then and now to a vegetable diet. What a convenient thing it is to be a reasonable creature since it enables one to find a good excuse for doing what he wishes to do."

Americans, in the past, have eaten large quantities of meat, perhaps too much. Until a few years ago, meat was one of our cheapest foods. Some of us can remember when fifteen cents worth of steak was enough for a family dinner. Those days are gone, probably never to return.

A reasonable amount of meat is necessary for a well balanced diet.

Don't eat too much meat, but don't go to the other extreme and cut out meat entirely.

Moderation is the wisest plan in diet, as in all other things.

Deaths Laid to Birds

"Death from misadventure" was the verdict by the coroner's jury at Newport, England, after the jury was told Frederick Vaughn, solicitor, and his wife had died from suffocation caused largely by jackdaws' nests blocking the chimney in their dwelling. The London Morning Post tells about the inquest.

A gasfitter said the chimney was stopped up with mortar, a tremendous quantity of twigs and the skeleton of a bird.

The coroner said this was obviously a jackdaw's nest.

On the Wrong Track

"What you need is to cheer up," said the doctor to his patient.

"You don't expect a man to cheer up when he has the dyspepsia, do you?" was the grumpy rejoinder.

"Certainly! Sing, read light literature, jest occasionally—"

"Jest?" repeated the sufferer. "Doctor, you're away off. I don't want to jest; what I want is to digest."

AMUSEMENTS

Thousands in cattle, but not a cent in the bank—that's the way the Texans found themselves in the days of reconstruction that followed the Civil war. Texas was in a bad way. The only thing it needed to make it boom was a market for its herds and when the news came thru that such a market is to be had way up "north of 36" what a scene there was!

Forty-five hundred cows, sixteen more or less human cow hands, 115 saddle ponies and all the rest, with young Faisie Lockhart, boss of the ranch, at their head hit the trail—a trail that brought them thru Indian territory thru fire and water and after many months to the little Kansas town, if we might call it such, that was to mean their salvation.

We couldn't begin to mention here the trials, the sufferings and hardships this little band underwent during the drive. Tho not as well known as the famous trek of the covered wagons westward, this great cattle drive was no less dangerous an adventure.

"The Covered Wagon" is a picture many people thought couldn't be made and "North of 36" a new Irish Wil lat production for Paramount which opened yesterday at the Met theater, is its twin.

The cast portraying the principal roles is in keeping with the legends of the story. Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson and Noah Beery are featured. Other prominent names appear in support. Emerson Hough, author of the "Wagon," wrote the story.

AIM TO ELECTRIFY

Ohio Farms—Begin State-wide Survey.

Columbus, Ohio, June 6.—Electrification of Ohio farms and rural communities is the ultimate object of a survey which is just now getting under way, according to announcement made by the Ohio Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture.

The committee, which is to study the benefits that electricity will bring to rural life and how it may be possible for the farms to have these electrical advantages, is made up of representatives of Ohio State University, the State Grange, the Farm Bureau Federation, public utility companies and electrical equipment manufacturers. Similar studies are being made also in other states.

Latest figures show that Ohio has 256,000 farms. Of this number 33,000 or 12.9 per cent have electricity from one source or another. The percentages vary from 1.8 per cent in Monroe and Vinton counties to as high as 35 and 36 per cent in Sandusky and Cuyahoga counties.

"Present plans of the committee are to make first surveys of several different communities in the state representing different types of agriculture, and to select farms in these communities which have been electrified for some five years or more," says P. B. Potter, executive secretary of the committee.

"These surveys are to include all kinds of information obtainable from these electrified farms so that an idea may be obtained of what has been done in the way of application of electricity to agriculture.

"It is the intention to select an Ohio community that will have from fifteen to twenty farms in it and begin a thorough detailed survey of the farms before they are electrified, to learn just how different the farm processes are carried on and to study out means of applying electricity to these different processes as they are now carried on. As soon as possible after such survey is made, it will be the aim to secure electricity for this community and to study the farms and the farm processes after electricity has been applied.

"In other words, we are trying to pick out a representative community and study electricity there 'before and after taking.'

"We shall also seek to determine the effect that electricity has on the time and recreation of the housewife, as well as upon the value of the labor and time saved. An effort, too, will be made to study the effect of electricity in a community upon the general social life of that community."

Dean Alfred Vivian of the College of Agriculture, Dean E. A. Hitchcock of the College of Electrical Engineering and Prof. G. W. McCuen represent Ohio State University on the Committee.

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation is represented by L. B. Palmer and M. D. Lincoln, while C. A. Dyer, H. A. Caton and R. B. Thompson represent the state grange.

For the utility companies, J. B. Johnson, E. T. Wagenhals and O. H. Hutchings are on the Committee, with W. H. Prior, G. E. Reiff and Nemo Elmstead representing the equipment manufacturers.

B. P. Hess, a graduate of the College of Agriculture, O. S. U., and also a county farm agent, is to do the field work on the survey.

The fire was put out on the residence which was only slightly damaged.

Address Bright Sayings.
Our son, three, was watching his grandpa skinning squirrels. He said: "Grandpa, let's plant their tails in the garden, then there will be more squirrels and you can shoot them again next year."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Superstition and the Owl.
The owl, with its curdling cry, has always been regarded with superstition as a forerunner of calamity. The Indians shrink from the cry of the horned owl. Shakespeare refers to it as the bird of evil omen.

Spitz Dog Not Useless.
The Pomera:ian sheep dog, better known as the Spitz dog, is bred in most countries as a house pet, small and useless. But in its own home on the shores of the Baltic this dog is the local sheep tender.

COCONUT KING GIVES $2,500,000 FOR HUMANITY

Plans to Train Youths and Start Them in Business—Gives to Employees.

New York.—Leopold Schepp, known as the "coconut king," has set aside $2,500,000 of his fortune to carry out philanthropic plans for the "betterment of humanity." It became known here. Part of his fortune will be used to establish a foundation for the benefit of worthy boys of New York, he announced.

Mr. Schepp recently distributed $22,900 to the employees of his firm. The employees, old and young, received gifts of from $500 to $1,000 each. Two years ago he made a similar distribution of $110,000. He subsequently established a pension system by which the beneficiaries, including servants in his home, receive monthly checks which aggregate thousands of dollars.

He plans, by his foundation for the benefit of boys in New York, to launch youths in a life of usefulness, if they prove worthy after a probation of two years. Youths between the ages of thirteen and sixteen years, of whatever creed or nationality, will be eligible. Each will be required to sign a pledge for two years, which will include abstinence from liquor. If the youth lives up to his pledge, he will receive $200 and be started in any business or calling that he selects. The foundation will be governed by a group of directors.

"I expect to get these boys," said Mr. Schepp, "by writing to the ministers of churches and Sunday school superintendents. It will be an association of endeavors. They must be of good health, physically and mentally, so as to grow into the best kind of young men. It will be nonsectarian."

"I hope to set an example for other employers and capitalists who may wish to do something with their surplus money before they die and while they can better judge where it will do most good. I wish that I had started the work long ago."

He said plans for establishment of the foundation now are in the hands of his lawyers.

Comes From the Romans

The expression, "He isn't worth his salt," found its origin in the fact that Roman soldiers were paid in salt rather than with money.

Writer Laughs at Law to Regulate the Sexes

The law and custom may do their best to establish sex equality, but neither can hope to undo the work of a thousand centuries. Whatever statutes may have to say, men always will seem amusing to women and women always will seem queer to men.

When a woman is ill she wishes to be petted; when a man is ill he wishes to be left alone.

When a woman does wrong she can at once persuade herself that she was not to blame; when a man does wrong he condemns himself utterly, even though the greater part of the fault was another's. A woman is most at ease when she has on new garments; a man in new clothes feels hideously conspicuous, says the Baltimore Sun.

A man can kiss another woman and love his wife no less; when a woman enjoys kissing another man her husband is out of the picture.

A woman loves all the time; a man only at intervals.

A man pretends to know more than he does in an effort to impress his wife; a woman pretends to know less than she does to avoid hurt to her husband's vanity.

A man hates but little and shows the little clearly; a woman hates much and contrives to conceal it.

A woman hides her strength; a man hides his weakness.

A man forgives because he can't remember; a woman remembers because she can't forgive.

A woman is religious because she feels the need of a protector; a man is religious because he would co-operate with God.

Man is led by his appetite; woman is led by her curiosity.

Man will not change his mind, because he first must admit that he was wrong; woman changes hers for the sake of expediency even if she knows her first opinion was right.

Legislation can't take away a duck's love of water nor a chicken's aversion to it.

LARGE CIRCUS WILL BE HERE IN FEW HOURS

Tomorrow is the Day and the Place is Mason's Field--- Everybody is Going.

Hooray! Tomorrow is show day! Christy Bros., big five ring with animal show called, "the newest big show in all the world" will bring its wonders to us at last. It needs no prophet to the crowds that will greet the splendid caravan. This year Christy Bros., is more than twice as big as before and indicates the tremendous size of this wonderful organization, which is announced to appear at Mason's show grounds tomorrow.

Among the leading features are two big troupes of lions and lionesses, made submissive to their master's command, with a most sensational finish. Positively the most thrilling trained animal act ever seen is two troupes of wild wolves. This is the first time that these have ever been trained and their act is one of beauty as well as remarkable. A barnyard number is also on the program. It is a great collection of domestic animals, rabbits, chickens, pigs, goats and sheep, geese and cats and rats.

Another innovation is the football game in which four elephants and four horses are the opponents. A leopard is introduced riding an elephant, while two lions ride horses. Two diving dogs and monkeys are seen in a sensational fight thru the air. Trained camels and llamas are quite a novelty on the program.

A hundred dogs are also introduced and the feats that they perform are so different that they create much merriment and admiration. The newest and seemingly impossible accomplishment in trained animals is the introduction of a troupe of six elk from Yellowstone park. Sacred cattle and buffaloes have been educated to work together and do tricks that are clever and original.

A most beautiful act is the introduction of the statute horses. They make picturesque poses. A positive novelty is the most remarkable animal act ever conceived, six big grizzly bears are made to do some wonderful tricks with a sensational wrestling match between the man and a bear. A troupe of ferocious leopards work with "pop" in one of the most original of animal acts under the guidance of the queen of wild animal trainers, Madame Harriet Guilfoyle.

This most remarkable and distinctive of all trained equine acts is presented by Mr. Merritt Bellew, acknowledged the peer of all horse trainers. Thirty-six horses, forming three companies of twelve each are presented.

A combined collection of zebras and zebrulas is another new act introduction of four dancing elephants and four dancing horses in an act that is filled with fun and originality.

Many ponies do some clever acting and they are quite an attraction. John Guilfoyle has educated two big black mane lions to work with two innocent lambs. The passage from the bible, "the lion and the lamb shall lie together" is vividly demonstrated.

One of the most imposing acts is the introduction of a mixed group of savage beasts who work together in one big steel arena and lions, tigers, leopards, panthers and wolves form one happy family doing some clever acting.

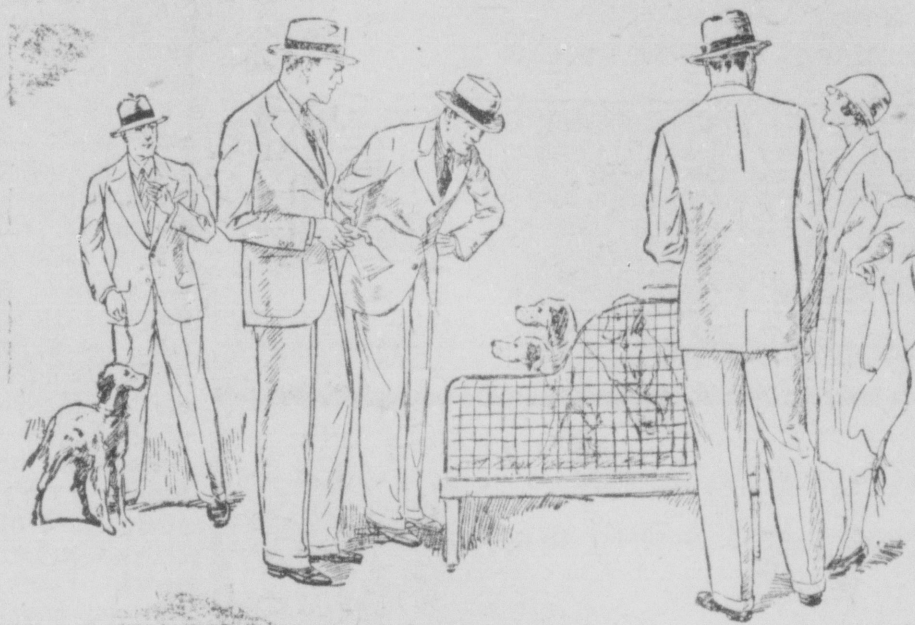

There is a large list of other animal features that attract. Fifty of the funniest clowns are introduced and in all Christy Bros. present one of the most attractive holiday attractions of the present period.

The grand introductory spectacle, a Biblical pageant of magnitude depicting many important passages in the bible is called "Noah and the Ark" in which nearly one thousand persons take part and almost as many animals. The opening shows the arrival on the ark of two pigeons. This is the signal and out pours many of the animals being led two by two. Then the story begins. Daniel is cast into the lion's den; the "Rock of Ages" is shown and many other interesting and instructive Biblical episodes, concluding with the vast assemblage congregating in the Holy City and then there is a merry-making, introducing many ancient and religious dances. The finale is one of the most spectacular and interesting ever seen under canvas.

Christy Bros., have spent thousands of dollars on the new street parade this year and it is bigger and more costly and attractive than ever. Two performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m.

BITTER ARGUMENTS ARMAND RUM TRIAL

THE DEFENSE IS PARADING SHROUD OF DEAD PRESIDENT

Says Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant U. S. Attorney General--Attacks Made On Major Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner.

Charges that the defense "is parading in the shroud of a dead president" that "perjury as committed by the three defendants" and attacks on Major Roy A. Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, marked the closing arguments in the conspiracy trial of J. E. Russell, suspended federal prohibition director for Ohio; Merle B. Copeland, his chief permit clerk, and Warren Barnett, prominent attorney, all of Columbus, Monday.

That "the defense is parading in the shroud of a dead president" was charged by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general after counsel for the defense referred to Russell and Copeland in their closing arguments as personal appointees of Warren G. Harding.

Mrs. Willebrandt also took exception to a statement by Attorney Luther Day of counsel for Copeland and Russell, that all of the facts in the plot of the Armand Drug and Candy Co., Cleveland, to withdraw whisky from a distillery at Troy had not been told.

"Does Luther Day think for a moment that the government is not conscious that all of the facts have not been disclosed?" Mrs. Willebrandt asked. "But all of the facts necessary to this case have been presented."

Day brought tears to the eyes of the jurors and spectators when he characterized Harry A. Grossberg, Cleveland attorney; Armand A. Cardoso, former head of the Armand Co., and Abe Ungerleider, Cleveland, the government's principal witness as "tellers of untruths" and "unvarnished liars."

Day also attacked the failure of the government to indict Underleider. In denying the guilt of the three defendants, former Federal Judge William L. Day, also of counsel for the defense, criticized Commissioner Haynes, who had testified for the government.

"If Russell and Copeland are subject to criticism, then how about Washington?" the attorney shouted. Then proceeding, Mr. Day argued that if the defendants are guilty Major Haynes is equally guilty.

Under cross examination, while testifying for the government the defense drew an admission from Major Haynes that copies of the Armand withdrawals had been sent to his office.

"Why excuse Haynes and indict Russell?" asked former Appellate Judge Walter D. Meals, associate counsel for Barnett, the last of the attorneys to argue today. "I don't suppose either Russell or Haynes knew anything about their offices when they first went in."

Mr. Meals said that the price paid Abe Ungerleider for his testimony "appears in the indictment arranged by his attorney." Speaking of Grossberg, he said, "if he didn't expect leniency from the court, he does from some other official when he gets ready."

Miles E. Evans assistant district attorney in opening for the government claimed that "perjury was committed by the three defendants" when they denied the testimony of Cardoso, Grossberg and Ungerleider, whom he referred to as the three confessed conspirators.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Liston of near Ashville, entertained to a dinner Sunday the following: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sampson, Mrs. Katie M. West and daughter, Twila, of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Liston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bolender and son, David, of Circleville and Mrs. Beulah B. Parley of Columbus.

A delightful surprise was given Sunday, June 7, at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Milligan, six miles north of Baltimore, honoring the 72d birthday anniversary of Mr. Milligan. At the noon hour a delicious dinner was served on the lawn. Those participating were Mrs. Charles Sorenson and son, Laman, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McCoy of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Milligan and sons, Charles and Robert, of Sunbury; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cutler and daughter, Geraldine of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackburn and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Milligan of Lancaster; Harold Smelser of Oakland, Mr. Charles Kemp, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Milligan of Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Milligan. The day was one to be remembered by all present. Leaving at a late hour all wished Mr. Milligan many more happy birthday anniversaries.

The Portsmouth Times gave an extended account of two recent social affairs in that city and among other things said:

Mrs. Gilbert S. Monroe and Mrs. Joseph T. Micklethwaite, two popular matrons, were accorded a social triumph as a result of their beautiful reception held Thursday afternoon between two and five o'clock at the Country club. The affair was given in honor of Mrs. Monroe's daughter-in-law Mrs. Harold Monroe, a bride of a few months.

Under the skillful touch of a decorator, the pretty club house, which affords an ideal place for a large affair was never more attractive, the lower floor being banked with baskets and vases of June roses and snapdragons placed here and there making an effective background for the two hundred handsomely gowned ladies who called during the receiving hours.

Mrs. Micklethwaite wore a lovely afternoon gown of blue beaded georgette. Mrs. Monroe was costumed in a gown of orchid georgette attractively beaded while her charming daughter-in-law wore a pretty frock of yellow georgette the three colors blending beautifully. At the entrance the guests were met by Mrs. Charles W. Wendelken and Mrs. Oscar R. Micklethwaite as they passed on they were welcomed by the two gracious hostesses and honor guest. After whiling away a few pleasant moment in the spacious living room the callers were invited into the dining room to partake of a delicious pink and white refreshment course. The table was attractively decorated with roses snapdragons and soft shaded lights. All during the afternoon Henri Schnabl's orchestra played a delightful program of music, which added much to the pleasures of the afternoon.

Mrs. Micklethwaite and Mrs. Monroe presided at an attractive bridge at the Country club on Friday afternoon when they entertained more than eighty guests at cards. This was the second of a series of two beautiful parties given by Mrs. Micklethwaite and Mrs. Monroe and proved to be one of the most charming of the early summer. The large living room was backed with summer flowers and the tables were attractively arranged with black and orange covers and the chairs were painted in orange.

At five o'clock a green and white ice course of exquisite appointments was served at the small tables. The ice cream was frozen in the shape of cream roses, the centers of which were yellow and the leaves green.

The out of town guests included the following: Mrs. Maud Hedges of Ashville, Ohio; Mrs. Sara Lyle, Mrs. Carrie Patton, Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, Mrs. Harp Van Riper, Mrs. Gus Schiear, Miss Flo Bell, of Circleville, and Miss Eva Bentley, of Urbana. Miss Bell was one of the prize winners.

INTOXICATED DRIVER WAS FINED $100

Homer Chandler, of Columbus, was placed under arrest Sunday afternoon on the Adelphi pike by Sheriff Young. It seems that Chandler, who was driving a Ford, ran off the pike and got stuck. It is claimed that he was under the influence of liquor.

The prisoner was taken before Judge Adkins Monday and on the charge of operating a motor vehicle, while under the influence of intoxicating liquor he was given a fine of $100 and costs. In default he was remanded to jail.

No Hypnotic Crimes

Assertions that crimes have been committed by one person at the hypnotic bidding of another must be relegated to the field of pure fiction, according to Doctor Delboeuf, a French physician, who has made a study of the subject of hypnotic influence. Doctor Delboeuf tells of an experiment that seems to be conclusive. He had one man whom he frequently used as a subject, who could readily be persuaded, while in the hypnotic state, that a stick or bottle or any such object was a pistol, and on being commanded would "shoot" any other person with the mock weapon. But when a real revolver, which the subject in his conscious state had always known to be loaded, was placed in his hands, he would not pull the trigger, though he was hypnotized at the time and the weapon was empty. Doctor Delboeuf is of the opinion that naturally moral persons will not perform under the hypnotic state any acts that are inhibited by their conscious moral codes. He believes also, however, that a person of criminal tendencies might commit a crime while hypnotized, since the idea of crime is not repugnant to his conscious mind.

IT'S
TOASTED

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

TO the general public, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a 75c tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly one-half of what you pay for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last (fiscal) year it amounted to $309,014,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.93, or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins More Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it generous, to attract attention.

Super-quality

Only by immense volume can we produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture

Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert, describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

COAST GUARD HAS MANY ODD TASKS

Get "Singing Sands" and Find Spot for Bee Culture.

Washington. — Annually the coast guard is writing new and thrilling chapters of marine history by its protection of life at sea and its war on rum runners, but between times it also is attending successfully to a multitude of small duties about which the public hears nothing.

One of the most unusual requests ever received was from the head of a religious cult for specimens of "the purest sands of the sea," wanted to heal bodily and spiritual ills. A station in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras, without passing on the curative qualities, has agreed to supply pure sea sand as requested.

The Department of Agriculture called upon the coast guard to locate a place suitable for bee culture, under prescribed conditions and free from objectionable vegetation. A propitious spot was found near Indian river inlet, on the Delaware coast.

Samples of marine growths, "singing sands" and other objects used in scientific study have been gathered, upon request, by the coast guard. Many times it has wrestled with the question, "What is the most dangerous part of the coast?" propounded by some curious correspondent.

Messages in bottles washed up on the beaches are coming to be written into the logs of coast-guard stations with progressing frequency. Recently one was picked up in a whisky bottle, the writer of the communication saying that he had been shanghaied aboard a rum craft and was being held against his will on rum row.

Restoring lost children to their parents, protecting wrecked property, fighting forest fires, aiding children to get to school through coastal storm-stricken regions and assisting survey parties, all are among the odd jobs in which the coast guard has had a major role.

Here Is the Tool That Completes the Fordson Farming Cycle

FOR many years the tractor has performed satisfactorily with plow, harrow, drill and belt-driven tools. But, how to utilize Fordson power in cultivating corn has been a problem. That vacancy in the cycle which would otherwise be complete has now been filled by the Amsco Two-row Cultivator.

With this machine, the Fordson cultivates thoroughly from the first cultivation to the last. This new machine has accomplished remarkable results. It marks the end of monotonous cultivating behind slow plodding teams.

The construction of this machine is simplicity itself. No unnecessary parts. No unnecessary friction. The cultivator is light running and easy to handle.

This is the last word in Standard Fordson Equipment, and every farmer in this community should see it.

Superb Horsemanship

Riff horsemen, whose achievements in the war with Spain are frequently referred to in the newspapers, are the most daring riders in the world. When in full gallop they will throw their swords and matchlocks in the air, and catch them by the hilts or stocks without drawing rein.

Not long ago a war correspondent declared that he had seen a Riff rider thread a needle held by another rider while racing full tilt across the sand.

Cossacks are fond of performing similar spectacular feats. One of their favorite tricks at gymkhanas is to snatch a child from its mother's arms, throw it into the air, catch it, and return it unharmed to its parents.

Indian riders of the Great Northwest will dismount while their steeds are galloping, pick up an object on the ground, and remount almost in the same instant.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. WILMINGTON

Defeated Circleville Sunday Afternoon In a Well Played Game By a Score of 4 To 2.

A good sized crowd saw Wilmington defeat Circleville yesterday at Mason's field by a count of 4 to 2, in a game in which the majority of the breaks went to the visitors. Dewey pitched a nice article of ball and if the fielding had been perfect would have sent the visitors home without a run.

The Wilmington team scored three of their four runs in the third inning after a chance to retire the side had been fizzled, and the final run in the sixth was the result of two fielding miscues.

The story of that unlucky third is a painful one to tell. This is the frame in which the visitors did their only stick work of the game, securing five of their eight safe blows, but for Outfielder Russ Miller misjudging a line hit which got over his head the side would have been retired without a run. The first three men up connected safely, in this inning, filling the sacks with no one down, but the next batter rapped a hard one toward center on which Pettit made a nice catch and with a quick throw doubled the man on second. The next hit was the one on which Russ lost track of the ball and two runs came over and to add to the woe of the local fans the next batter hit a high one, which went safe because all of the three men that started for the ball stopped and let it fall between them.

In the sixth after Davis had hit safely, Lever let a pitched ball get through and Davis went to second from where he scored when Miller missed Dodd's poke to left.

Circleville's first run was a gift from the Wilmington pitcher. Pettit was walked and was forced at second by Allen and then McGrainer was given a walk, placing Allen on second from where he scored when Tommy Thompson delivered a sharp rap between first and second.

In the ninth the locals secured one more and it looked like they might break up the game. Dewey led off with a clean hit and when Wilmington attempted a double play on Rife's grounder to Hironamus the second baseman failed to touch the bag and Rife beat the throw to first, both being safe. Dewey thinking he was out started to walk to third and the Wilmington first baseman thinking the same thing tossed the ball to the pitcher and Dewey had stolen the base in a walk while the ball was in the infield. Pettit then brought the fans to their feet with a line drive to right, but the celebration was premature as the ball was driven directly into the fielder's mitt. Allen then forced Rife at second and McGrainer started another thrill when he connected with one, but his hit was a duplicate of Pettit's, the ball going directly to the right gardner for the final out of the game.

In addition to these two hits, either of which would have gone to the fence if they had been a few feet either way, Os Miller hit a drive at the third baseman that he had to catch because he could not get away from it, and on a number of occasions the Wilmington infield took hard hit ground balls that came right to them.

The fielding features were Pettit's double before mentioned, a nice double by Rife, Allen and Miller, a beautiful catch of a line drive by Davis, and the stop of a hot grounder well up toward first by Botts.

On next Sunday Circleville will play at Wilmington and a large crowd will undoubtedly follow the team.

KEEPING WELL

BEN FRANKLIN ON VEGETARIANISM

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was not only one of the great men of his time, he was one of the great men of all time. He was a successful business man, a successful publisher, the owner and editor of the most influential newspaper of his times; a leader in the political thought and activities of his generation; one of the men whose vision and statesmanship created the United States out of a handful of quarrelling and undeveloped colonies. He was our first ambassador to France; he organized our post office service. As a scientist, his work in electricity and physics laid the foundation for much of the wonderful electrical development of the present day.

Yet Franklin had as much trouble finding out what he ought to eat as any of the rest of us have. In his autobiography he tells about his conversion from vegetarianism.

He says, "In my first voyage from Boston, being becalmed off Block Island, the sailors set about catching cod. Heretofore, I had held to my resolution of not eating any animal food and I regarded the taking of each individual fish as a kind of unprovoked murder, since none of them had done us any injury which might justify the slaughter. I had formerly been a great lover of fish and when this fresh cod, which the sailors caught, came hot out of the frying pan, it smelt admirably well. I balanced some time between principle and inclination until I observed that when the fish were opened after they were caught, their stomachs were found full of smaller fish. Then I said to myself, 'If you eat one another, I don't see why I shouldn't eat you.' So I dined upon cod very heartily and continued to eat with other people, returning only then and now to a vegetable diet. What a convenient thing it is to be a reasonable creature since it enables one to find a good excuse for doing what he wishes to do."

Americans, in the past, have eaten large quantities of meat, perhaps too much. Until a few years ago, meat was one of our cheapest foods. Some of us can remember when fifteen cents worth of steak was enough for a family dinner. Those days are gone, probably never to return.

A reasonable amount of meat is necessary for a well balanced diet. Don't eat too much meat, but don't go to the other extreme and cut out meat entirely.

Moderation is the wisest plan in diet, as in all other things.

Deaths Laid to Birds

"Death from misadventure" was the verdict by the coroner's jury at Newport, England, after the jury was told Frederick Vaughn, solicitor, and his wife had died from suffocation caused largely by jackdaws' nests blocking the chimney in their dwelling. The London Morning Post tells about the inquest.

A gasfitter said the chimney was stopped up with mortar, a tremendous quantity of twigs and the skeleton of a bird.

The coroner said this was obviously a jackdaw's nest.

On the Wrong Track

"What you need is to cheer up," said the doctor to his patient.

"You don't expect a man to cheer up when he has the dyspepsia, do you?" was the grumpy rejoinder.

"Certainly! Sing, read light literature, jest occasionally—"

"Jest?" repeated the sufferer. "Doctor, you're away off. I don't want to jest; what I want is to digest."

AMUSEMENTS

Thousands in cattle, but not a cent in the bank—that's the way the Texans found themselves in the days of reconstruction that followed the Civil war. Texas was in a bad way. The only thing it needed to make it boom was a market for its herds and when the news came thru that such a market is to be had way up "north of 36" what a scene there was!

Forty-five hundred cows, sixteen more or less human cow hands, 115 saddle ponies and all the rest, with young Talsie Lockhart, boss of the ranch, at their head hit the trail—a trail that brought them thru Indian territory thru fire and water and after many months to the little Kansas town, if we might call it such, that was to mean their salvation.

We couldn't begin to mention here the trials, the sufferings and hardships this little band underwent during the drive. Tho not as well known as the famous trek of the covered wagons westward, this great cattle drive was no less dangerous an adventure.

"The Covered Wagon" is a picture many people thought couldn't be made and "North of 36" a new livid. Will lat production for Paramount which opened yesterday at the Met theater, is its twin.

The cast portraying the principal roles is in keeping with the bigness of the story. Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson and Noah Beery are featured. Other prominent names appear in support. Emerson Hough, author of the "Wagon," wrote the story.

AIM TO ELECTRIFY

Ohio Farms—Begin State-wide Survey.

Columbus, Ohio, June 6.—Electrification of Ohio farms and rural communities is the ultimate object of a survey which is just now getting under way, according to announcement made by the Ohio Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture.

The committee, which is to study the benefits that electricity will bring to rural life and how it may be possible for the farms to have these electrical advantages, is made up of representatives of Ohio State University, the State Grange, the Farm Bureau Federation, public utility companies and electrical equipment manufacturers. Similar studies are being made also in other states.

Latest figures show that Ohio has 256,000 farms. Of this number 33,000 or 12.9 per cent have electricity from one source or another. The percentages vary from 1.8 per cent in Monroe and Vinton counties to as high as 35 and 36 per cent in Sandusky and Cuyahoga counties.

"Present plans of the committee are to make first surveys of several different communities in the state representing different types of agriculture, and to select farms in these communities which have been electrified for some five years or more," says P. B. Potter, executive secretary of the committee.

"These surveys are to include all kinds of information obtainable from these electrified farms so that an idea may be obtained of what has been done in the way of application of electricity to agriculture.

"It is the intention to select an Ohio community that will have from fifteen to twenty farms in it and begin a thorough detailed survey of the farms before they are electrified, to learn just how different the farm processes are carried on and to study out means of applying electricity to these different processes as they are now carried on. As soon as possible after such survey is made, it will be the aim to secure electricity for this community and to study the farms and the farm processes after electricity has been applied.

"In other words, we are trying to pick out a representative community and study electricity there 'before and after taking.'

"We shall also seek to determine the effect that electricity has on the time and recreation of the housewife, as well as upon the value of the labor and time saved. An effort, too, will be made to study the effect of electricity in a community upon the general social life of that community."

Dean Alfred Vivian of the College of Agriculture, Dean E. A. Hitchcock of the College of Electrical Engineering and Prof. G. W. McCuen represent Ohio State University on the Committee.

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation is represented by L. B. Palmer and M. D. Lincoln, while C. A. Dyer, H. A. Caton and R. B. Thompson represent the state grange.

For the utility companies, J. B. Johnson, E. T. Wagenhals and O. H. Hutchings are on the Committee, with W. H. Prior, G. E. Reiff and Nemo Elmstead representing the equipment manufacturers.

B. P. Hess, a graduate of the College of Agriculture, O. S. U., and also a county farm agent, is to do the field work on the survey.

MISS MARY SHORT HAD NARROW ESCAPE

From Being Killed By Bolt of Lightning at Home of Brother Otis Short in Wayne Township Saturday Afternoon.

Miss Mary Short, of Columbus, daughter of the late Cary Short, had a narrow escape from being killed by a bolt of lightning during the storm last Saturday afternoon.

At the time, Miss Short, who is visiting her brother, Mr. Otis Short on the Rector farm in Wayne township, was sitting on the porch when the bolt struck the cornice of the house and descended to the porch, tearing a satin slipper on her right foot to shreds and badly burning her foot.

The fire was put out on the residence which was only slightly damaged.

COCONUT KING GIVES $2,500,000 FOR HUMANITY

Plans to Train Youths and Start Them in Business—Gives to Employees.

New York.—Leopold Schepp, known as the "coconut king," has set aside $2,500,000 of his fortune to carry out philanthropic plans for the "betterment of humanity," it became known here. Part of his fortune will be used to establish a foundation for the benefit of worthy boys of New York, he announced.

Mr. Schepp recently distributed $22,900 to the employees of his firm. The employees, old and young, received gifts of from $500 to $1,000 each. Two years ago he made a similar distribution of $110,000. He subsequently established a pension system by which the beneficiaries, including servants in his home, receive monthly checks which aggregate thousands of dollars. He plans, by his foundation for the benefit of boys in New York, to launch youths in a life of usefulness, if they prove worthy after a probation of two years. Youths between the ages of thirteen and sixteen years, of whatever creed or nationality, will be eligible. Each will be required to sign a pledge for two years, which will include abstinence from liquor. If the youth lives up to his pledge, he will receive $200 and be started in any business or calling that he selects. The foundation will be governed by a group of directors.

"I expect to get these boys," said Mr. Schepp, "by writing to the ministers of churches and Sunday school superintendents. It will be an association of endeavors. They must be of good health, physically and mentally, so as to grow into the best kind of young men. It will be nonsectarian."

"I hope to set an example for other employers and capitalists who may wish to do something with their surplus money before they die and while they can better judge where it will do most good. I wish that I had started the work long ago."

He said plans for establishment of the foundation now are in the hands of his lawyers.

Comes From the Romans

The expression, "He isn't worth his salt," found its origin in the fact that Roman soldiers were paid in salt rather than with money.

Writer Laughs at Law to Regulate the Sexes

The law and custom may do their best to establish sex equality, but neither can hope to undo the work of a thousand centuries. Whatever statutes may have to say, men always will seem amusing to women and women always will seem queer to men.

When a woman is ill she wishes to be petted; when a man is ill he wishes to be left alone.

When a woman does wrong she can at once persuade herself that she was not to blame; when a man does wrong he condemns himself utterly, even though the greater part of the fault was another's. A woman is most at ease when she has on new garments; a man in new clothes feels hideously conspicuous, says the Baltimore Sun.

A man can kiss another woman and love his wife no less; when a woman enjoys kissing another man her husband is out of the picture.

A woman loves all the time; a man only at intervals.

A man pretends to know more than he does in an effort to impress his wife; a woman pretends to know less than she does to avoid hurt to her husband's vanity.

A man hates but little and shows the little clearly; a woman hates much and contrives to conceal it.

A woman hides her strength; a man hides his weakness.

A man forgives because he can't remember; a woman remembers because she can't forgive.

A woman is religious because she feels the need of a protector; a man is religious because he would co-operate with God.

Man is led by his appetite; woman is led by her curiosity.

Man will not change his mind, because he first must admit that he was wrong; woman changes hers for the sake of expediency even if she knows her first opinion was right.

Legislation can't take away a duck's love of water nor a chicken's aversion to it.

CHERRIES! CHERRIES!

There is little fruit for canning; strawberries a short crop; no peaches, few plums or pears; poor prospect for blackberries.

The Buttercup Garden has a fair crop of cherries, currants and gooseberries—enough to fill the first orders that come in.

LARGE CIRCUS WILL BE HERE IN FEW HOURS

Tomorrow is the Day and the Place is Mason's Field---
Everybody is Going.

Hooray! ! Tomorrow is show day! Christy Bros., big five ring wild animal show called, "the newest big show in all the world" will bring its wonders to us at last. It needs no prophet to the views that will greet the splendid caravan. This year Christy Bros. is more than twice as big as before and indicates the tremendous size of this wonderful organization, which is announced to appear at Mason's show grounds tomorrow.

Among the leading features are two big troupes of lions and lionesses, made submissive to their master's command, with a most sensational finish. Positively the most thrilling trained animal act ever seen is two troupes of wild wolves. This is the first time that these have ever been trained and their act is one of beauty as well as remarkable. A barnyard number is also on the program. It is a great collection of domestic animals, rabbits, chickens, pigs, goats and sheep, geese and cats and rats.

Another innovation is the football game in which four elephants and four horses are the opponents. A leopard is introduced riding an elephant, while two lions ride horses. Two diving dogs and monkeys are seen in a sensational flight thru the air. Trained camels and llamas are quite a novelty on the program.

A hundred dogs are also introduced and the feats that they perform are so different that they create much merriment and admiration. The newest and seemingly impossible accomplishment in trained animals is the introduction of a troupe of six elk from Yellowstone park. Sacred cattle and buffaloes have been educated to work together and do tricks that are clever and original.

A most beautiful act is the introduction of the statute horses. They make picturesque poses. A positive novelty is the most remarkable animal act ever conceived, six big grizzly bears are made to do some wonderful tricks with a sensational wrestling match between the man and a bear. A troupe of ferocious leopards work with "pcp" in one of the most original of animal acts under the guidance of the queen of wild animal trainers, Madame Harriet Guilfoyle.

This most remarkable and distinctive of all trained equine acts is presented by Mr. Merritt Bellew, acknowledged the peer of all horse trainers. Thirty-six horses, forming three companies of twelve each are presented.

A combined collection of zebras and zebrulas is another new act introduction of four dancing elephants and four dancing horses in an act that is filled with fun and originality.

Many ponies do some clever acting and they are quite an attraction. John Guilfoyle has educated two big black mane lions to work with two innocent lambs. The passage from the bible, "the lion and the lamb shall lie together" is vividly demonstrated.

One of the most imposing acts is the introduction of a mixed group of savage beasts who work together in one big steel arena and lions, tigers, leopards, panthers and wolves form one happy family doing some clever acting.

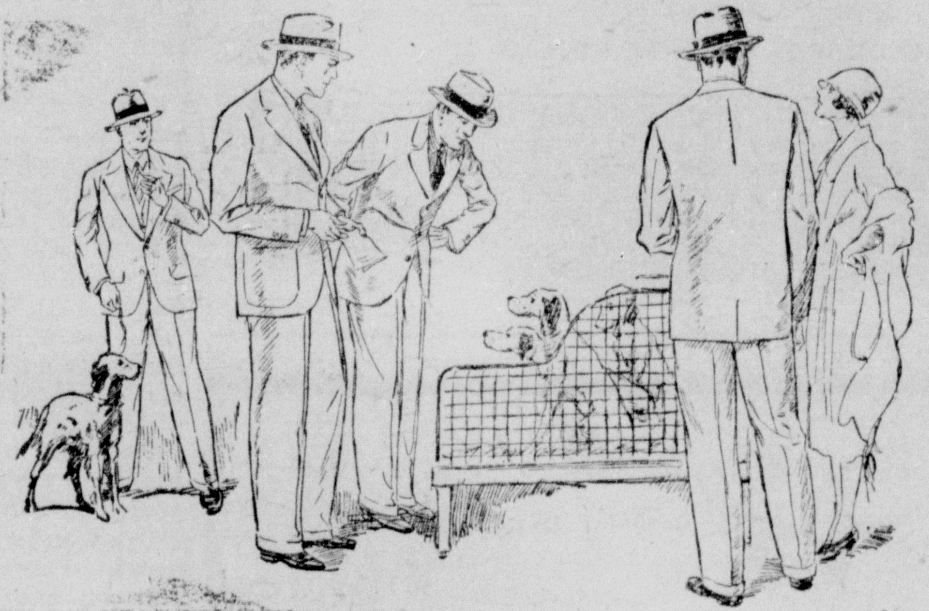

There is a large list of other animal features that attract. Fifty of the funniest clowns are introduced and in all Christy Bros. present one of the most attractive holiday attractions of the present period.

The grand introductory spectacle, a biblical pageant of magnitude depicting many important passages in the bible is called "Noah and the Ark" in which nearly one thousand persons take part and almost as many animals. The opening shows the arrival on the ark of two pigeons. This is the signal and out pours many of the animals being led two by two. Then the story begins. Daniel is cast into the lion's den; the "Rock of Ages" is shown and many other interesting and instructive biblical episodes, concluding with the vast assemblage congregating in the Holy City and then there is a merry-making, introducing many ancient and religious dances. The finale is one of the most spectacular and interesting ever seen under canvas.

Christy Bros. have spent thousands of dollars on the new street parade this year and it is bigger and more costly and attractive than ever. Two performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m.
